It can be setup for 4 different meal times and you can set portion control for it. So this is great for pets that need to diet, or if you want to have your pet eat at certain times. You can load a good amount of food into it and then have it only give the desired amount. You can also record messages to play when it produces the food. The head has to be rotated about 45 degrees then you can pull it up for easy refilling of the food reservoir area. It is meant for small to medium dogs or for cats. The portion control is great but mentions in grams. I will need to fill it frequently for our Lab but should work without problems for the smaller dogs and the cats. No

00 am to feed the cats they are on portion control and still getting used to the smaller portion size so seem to be hungry all the time. The power is dual plug in to an outlet or 3 D batteries. Can set up upto 4 feedings, which is perfect for the cats as they get hungry later. Happy with the purchase, should help keep the pets healthy and fed on time if I get late coming back from work. You can set up to 4 meals a day. At first I had difficulty getting a big enough portion. The number actually refers to the number of sections of food that will drop. For my cats this was around 20. Once I figured this out the rest was easy. It plugs into the wall or uses battery. You can even have it play message to your cat as the food falls. I've never seen any cats eat a lot like mine. Everyday, I fill 1 big bowl for them, and whenever I get home, it's all out. Sometimes, they get too hungry and eat my food on kitchen too. I decided to buy an auto cat feeder since I can't feed them while I'm at work. This automatic pet feeder can feed my 2 cats 4 times a day. I can set up timer and my voice in this machine. It can store a whole 3.5 pounds bag of cat food, and it can always keep the food fresh as you can see in my video I provide. Every time that someone finds an animal they call to see if she will take it in and this makes taking trips away from the house difficult unless you have someone come by to take care of them. We have tried a few different options in terms of delayed food delivery and typically what happens is the device gets knocked over, disabling it from distributing food, or it uses gravity or the like to give as much food as the animals want. Animals, at least ours, tend to eat until it is gone. Someone recommended this to me, and my favorite feature is the solid base and low center of gravity making it harder to tip over. Because of the timed delay they get food over a couple of days.

Wouldn't recommend past a couple of days, but great for long weekends and the like, so hopefully this company makes a larger model in the future. It works reliably and well. It's so convenient to feed my cat this way. But who would want to feed their cat four times a day. Too much trouble. Plus, now she doesn't bother me for food, because the feeder feeds her. Now when she interacts with me, I am reasonably sure it's not because she wants to get fed. The backup battery gives me peace of mind as well, because if we're away for a day or two I know it will work even if we lose power. But for the price, it seems to be a great product. It's extremely easy to program, set portion sizes, and fill up. I've been using it regularly for a few months now and have had zero issues with it, which means it's an absolute 5 star rating from me. I tried it first for a few days while I was still home and it worked like a charm. I like that it has 4 settings with different portion sizes so my big eaters can gobble up their food first then an hour later I can add more for my slower eaters. It works great for us. I also like that I can use it with a cord or with batteries. In order to navigate out of this carousel please use your heading shortcut key to navigate to the next or previous heading. Never wash the panel please. Up to 6 meals one day, 115 portion per meal and 15g per portion. 24 Hour settings, accurate to hours and minutes, easy to set meal time. No complicated programming! It is recommended to use both battery and USB charge in case any of the two cut off letting your cats or dogs hungry. NOTE We suggest to put batteries inside as well when you are away to avoid anything unexpected happen to the electricity. The removable hygienic feeding tray is dishwasher safe and easy to clean and refill.

Rachel L. 4.0 out of 5 stars I use this product to open feed my 2 cats and they have adapted to using the automated feeder very well. I have 2 complaints that I did not account for, but they were manageable. I didnt realize the plug in option would need a USB adapter, so I had to buy a plug adapter to use this with my electrical outlet instead of just on battery use. The instructions does not convert the food for you in cups, which is the way vets tend to provide recommended food amounts, so I had to do some math to figure out how many servings I should do in each feeding. Not the end of the world, just would have been easier to set up if I didnt have to do the conversions myself. Either way its a nice product.

Granted, this is partially my fault, but the cord is SUPER thin and not very pet resistant. This leads into my second point. The unit is not very heavy, even with food in filled all the way to the brim. The problem with this is that with the bowl attached, the rabbits easily pull it around. I had to remove the bowl, fill the machine halfway with pellets and then put a small 20lb weight inside to make them not be able to move it. Now they cant move it, but the food falls straight to the ground instead of the nice attached bowl. A tradeoff, I suppose. The portion sizing is a bit inconsistent. Sometimes the portions are small and other times its larger. I dont forsee this to be a problem for dogs who have more portions, but for rabbits who need small, controlled portions its a little inconvenient. If the rabbits scratch at the machine or knock it, it usually easily drops pellets down the chute. So for about 30min after they get fed, they scratch at the machine and keep trying to knock more food out. This wouldnt be so bad.if they werent successful at it. But they are, so they keep going. Programming the feeding time and portions was a piece of cake. Thats all.So I started looking around. I have two complaints. D batteries really kind of bug me. The only thing that takes those batteries are baby swings and I just really never cared for the type and you need three of them. Its usb powered so I wouldnt expect it takes too much power to need those kind of batteries and it bugs me. Also the lid doesnt snap. It fits in pretty well but my old one had a snap on it. A cat probably couldnt knock it over but a kid or dog running into it could make a big mess if they hit it. Other than that the LCD is much easier to use than my old one. It is in military time which doesnt bother me too much since I am military but my wife hates military time. Anyways, I think its 34 stars for sure. I wouldnt call it a five star product.

I think it is a good enough product to purchase though for a cat which is what I purchased it for.I filled it with Taste of the Wild for cats. I think the pellet size is about average for cat food. The first portion it dispensed was exactly as described in the instructions — about 0.5 oz. The following portion was bigger — 0.85 oz. I needed this to feed my cat while I was out of town for a couple of days. I programmed it to feed 1 portion at a time, two in the morning and two in the evening. When I got home, there was so much food in the bowl that it didn't look like my cat had eaten at all. But I could tell that he did. I can't make the portions any smaller, but at least I can be sure that my cat will get food. The plastic bowl is also all scratched up after only 3 days of food for a cat.He comes running to eat as soon as he hears the sound of food coming out. It is very easy to program, and you can set the serving size for each meal. If you're trying to keep your peg on a strict diet and watching portion size for them then this is a god send. Also Sometting I Love is that he is so excited to eat his kibble from it that I no longer need to entice him with wet cat food. Very convenient esp when away from home. Excellent for establishing a regular feeding schedule and limiting portions. Only wish materials were not all plastic at least the bowl could stainless steel or ceramic for health reasons. Also wish the digital display to program settings was reversed it should face towards bowl in front for ease of adjustment. Extremely frustrating, especially because I ordered this from Canada and had to pay extra for duties. I would like to make contact with someone from the company to discuss this. Additionally, when it did work, I found the minimum portion size still to be too large. I bought the machine to stop my cat from eating her food too quickly, hoping that small meals multiple times a day would help.

Unfortunately, even the smallest amount of food was too much to be a small meal. Positively, the timer function works very well and it holds a lot of food. This manual will cover the setup and installation steps, a feature overview, cleaning instructions and more! Comes with a 1 year limited warranty and customer service for the life of the product. To get started, you'll need the following four items Available on the Apple App Store and Google Play. The light on the front of the SmartFeeder will illuminate red once powered on. The light on the front of the SmartFeeder will illuminate red once powered on. Ensure Bluetooth is enabled on your phone and press connect. Then, remove the label from the bowl tray and slide the plastic bowl on the tray until it clicks into place. Pour food into the hopper, leaving a 1 inch clearance at the top. We do not recommend using the SmartFeeder outdoors. All other parts can be cleaned with a wet towel or sponge. Cannot combine with other offers. With Petwant's digital timer you can program each meal to be served to the hour and minute you choose, with no preset times like other feeders. The feeder is suitable for dry food and if you want to feed your cat wet food, it needs to be served in less than 24 hours. The CE marking certifies that a product has met EU standards for consumer safety, including health or environmental requirements. So only 4 meals can be programmed. The inside tray with the 5 compartments rotates clockwise exposing one compartment at a time and the lid keeps still. This tray can be easily lifted out with the push of a button located in front of the feeder. To program the unit you need to program the current time on the feeder, then program each compartment according to the number of meals to be dispensed in one day, up to 4.

Finally, you can record your personal message calling your cat to eat. Assembling click to enlarge With this feeder, you can set up a feeding schedule of one meal a day for 4 days or two meals a day for 2 days, etc. Only 4 meals are programmable since once it's exposed. If you want the feeder to dispense one meal a day for 4 days, you just need to program one meal time to the hour of your preference, and then skip the other numbers. The tray will always rotate at the time of the day you chose so if you place the food in the 4 compartments, you can leave the feeder up to 4 days without refilling it. The timer works similar to the cell phone alarm so it's really easy to program. Secure locking system on top lid that can be only released by a push of a button. Touch buttons are highly sensitive With voice personal message calling your cat to eat CONS If the lid isn't snapped properly, a smart cat can outsmart the feeder and pull the lid from inside. Food compartment could be narrow and deep for cats with a big head. The audio quality of the recording isn't good. Some customers report that voice recorder function doesn't work Manual of user isn't very detailed Programming it's in military time 24hrs instead 12hrs It doesn't have ice packs, if used with wet food needs to be served in less than 24 hours. There are no spare trays for backup TIPS Some customers freeze the wet food for a few hours and place it in the feeder for the next morning. Placing the lid back on it's a little tricky because it fits very precisely without any play once it is locked. CONCLUSION PetWant 5 Meals Automatic Pet Feeder is a product made in China that is distributed for several brands, but the manufacturer is PetWant. The quality of this unit is higher than other low priced dishshaped feeders made in China, however, a few customers report that the audio feature doesn't work. Anyway, the Company offers 100% satisfaction guarantee.

With this automatic feeder if you want to feed your cat several times per day you will need to refill the dish every day, but if you feed your cat once a day you can leave the unit for 4 days. So to help you decide which one is best for you and your pet we have put together this article to highlight the best automatic cat and dog food dispensers available to buy online in the UK. There are quite a few feeders that are not available in the UK, so this list only includes those that you can buy from UKbased sellers. How many days ahead do you want to be able to program meals for, how many portions it can serve, and whether you can use wet and dry, or just dry food. The most basic just allow you to set a single time when the feeder will open, however the more advanced will let you schedule meals at different times of the day. It is possible to buy feeders with between 1 and 6 individual feeding bowls, with portion sizes between 175 and 500ml. Some also allow you to fit an ice pack which helps keep wet food fresher for longer. The sealed feeders will prevent your pets from eating the food too early, and will also protect it from drying out, and also from flies and insects. These are only suitable for dry food, and the main advantage is that they have a larger capacity than the other types of feeder. This means you can schedule food to be dropped for a longer period of time than with the other types of feeder.

These typically have around 4 to 6 trays which rotate at scheduled times and move the next full tray of food to the access hole. Some of these feeders come with ice packs, and can be used with wet food as well as dry. These are the most basic form of pet feeder, and only have one or two food compartments. While these are generally the cheapest pet feeders available to buy, they are rather limited and only suitable for 1 or two meals. Some of these feeders also come with ice packs, so can also be used for wet food as well as dry. This can help let your pet know that their dinner is served. It is also possible to buy a microchip cat feeder which is programmed to only open when it recognises your cat's microchip. It is slightly cheaper too, so unless you really want the colours that the Trixie comes in, then you can save yourself some money and buy this version. In addition, there is an extra chamber on top of the feeder which can be filled with ice to keep the food cool and fresh. Alternatively, this chamber can be left open and used as a water bowl if you prefer. The bowl and trays are easy to take apart which makes cleaning very easy. You can also prerecord a voice message of up to 8 seconds which plays when the feeder opens, to let your pet know it is dinner time. The feeder will remain open until the next feeding time, which lets your pet eat at their own pace, but still receive meals on a regular schedule. This allows your pet to eat at their own pace, but on a regular feeding schedule that you control. This message is then played 3 times at every feeding time to let your pet know it's time to eat. The reason for it being played 3 times is in case your cat doesn't hear the message the first or second time! There is a low battery warning light to let you know when these need changing. The feeding trays are also easily removable for ease of cleaning. The timer can be programmed to feed your pets up to 4 times a day, and the 10.

6 litre capacity means it can hold enough food for up to 90 days with 1 meal per day. The easy to use control panel also includes an LCD clock and a lowbattery indicator. A fresh set of batteries should last around 1 year. Up to 450g of wet food enough to feed 2 cats is kept fresh in the feeding compartment by the closely fitting lid, however unlike the larger C20 feeder, this one does not feature an ice pack. The single AA battery should last for around 1 year. Also, another useful feature is that if your pet has a habit of pushing their bowls around the floor, this one can easily be fixed to a piece of wood to help keep it in place. There are a couple of other differences too; the timer is 48 hours compared to 24 on the C10, and this model includes an ice pack which helps keep the food cool. Despite the name, this automatic feeder is also suitable for small dogs as well as cats. Each tray is controlled by its own battery-powered timer which can be set to open the lid at any time up to 48 hours ahead. The feeder requires a single AA battery, which should last for around 1 year. However this feeder does not have any sort of low-battery indicator so you will need to make a note of when you should replace it. After use, simply freeze it again in your freezer. This feeder can also be attached to a piece of wood so it doesn't get pushed around by a large pet. Two ice packs under the bowl help keep the food fresh, along with the close-fitting lid. While the feeding bowl has 5 compartments, one of these is always open, so it's only possible to schedule 4 meals for future times. The Cat Mate C300 Automatic Pet Feeder is a smaller, 3-meal, version of the C500 feeder, and is slightly cheaper. The C3000 automatic cat feeder is designed to dispense the smaller size of dry food that cats eat, while the D3000 timed dog feeder is designed for larger dog-size kibble. It is recommended that the Dog Mate D3000 is NOT used with small, free-flowing food smaller than pea size.

This is designed for pets with specific dietary requirements for example diabetic cats, or if you want to regulate how much food your pet eats. In addition, you can manually serve an extra portion or portions at any time. This feeder can also be attached to a wooden board to prevent it from being knocked over by your pet. By using any computer, tablet or smart phone including iPhone and Android connected to the internet, you can set up feeding schedules wherever you may be. It also features a 6-second voice recorder so the feeder can play a short message to let your pet know it's feeding time. The feeding tray has a locking mechanism, so this feeder should resist even the most determined attempts by your pet to try and break in. Although you can use wet food, this feeder doesn't have an ice pack feature, so it's only recommended to leave wet food in there for 24-48 hours at most. The feeding tray is very easy to remove, and is dishwasher safe to make it easy to clean. Despite the many identities, the feeders are exactly the same other than the name on the front. Each of the two food trays has a capacity of around 350ml. Each of the 5 trays can hold up to 230g of dry food. Unlike the Cat Mate C50, this particular feeder doesn't have any way to use an ice pack, so it is recommended to use dry food only. The timer requires 4 x D type batteries, and these should last for between 6-12 months. The LCD display also includes a low-battery indicator. They do not have any way to fit an ice pack however, so this feeder is recommended for dry food only. Instead, it can be programmed to recognise your cat's microchip or the supplied RFID collar tag, and only opens up when they approach the feeder. It's also great for pets who are on weight management diets, as it will prevent them from eating food meant for your other pets.

This feeder doesn't have an ice pack to keep wet food cool, although it does have an integrated seal which helps keep food fresher and away from flies when the lid is closed. You can also purchase spare bowls with matching mat. The easy to clean plastic food bowl has a capacity of 300ml, which is enough for a single meal of wet or dry food. The feeder also includes an ice pack, which keeps wet food fresher for longer. It features twin 300ml plastic feeding bowls for either wet or dry food, and each bowl has its own battery-powered 48-hour timer. The feeder can also be used for dry food. The timer on this particular feeder is not as sophisticated as that on the Andrew James version or the Trixie TX4 Plus, so you may want to consider one of the other feeders if you require more flexible feeding times. Certified pet-safe made of BPA-free plastic. It can record a 10-second voice message for meal time and allows playback for the programmable timer. Do the same for Lunch and Dinner or 4th meal. Can be USB powered and has optional battery power system too. Requires 3 pcs of D batteries. It is stain-resistant and easy to clean for your cat or dog. Beau 3.0 out of 5 stars It arrived packaged well big box and timely. We ordered it for our cat in prep for a weekend away where it was too much hassle to deal with cattery hours, work, etc. Received this a month before the weekend away to try it out went well it dispensed the food as described and gave us a break. But the instructions are confusing re how to set the program settings and the two portion choices are extreme. Just like other reviews, it dispenses a large amount too much for a cat as it fills up the bowl approx 1 cup which could be OK for a dog or a greedy cat or just a couple kibbles, literally. Unfortunately, when we returned from said trip late that night, the cat was showing behaviour of not being fed in a while. We noticed there weren't any kibbles in the bowl, investigated and discovered one kibble got jammed so it didn't dispense the evening meal. Lucky for us, we set breakfast for the large amount just in case and were glad we did. He was wanting fed but had a big meal earlier.
